One of the world's leading futurists will help us visualize how the business environment will continue to evolve in a post-COVID world, with a particular emphasis on the health care and insurance sectors.

This powerful keynote presentation will help everyone chart the way forward for their organizations given emerging challenges and opportunities created by digital delivery realities, changing work patterns and related developments.

Conversations Between the Leaders of Today and the Leaders of Tomorrow (LIVE)

For the past two years, SIIA has produced "Mentor Connection" forums designed to connect younger industry professionals with leading executives for small group career development mentoring sessions.

These forums have sparked many interesting conversations highlighting important perspectives from both sides.

To give to give you a flavor of what is being said, this session will feature members who participated as part of the most recent Mentor Connection Forum.

You will hear about the specific career advancement advice that has been shared, what younger professionals value most in their work environments, mutual expectations and other topics
